Couples Get-away Retreat weekend

Couples get-away was truly beautiful — a weekend filled with moments that glorified God and deepened our appreciation for the gift of marriage.

Grateful for the time spent gathering together, celebrating love, faith, and commitment, and creating memories that will last for years to come. What a blessing to share in fellowship, encouragement, and spiritual growth with one another.

"I am doing something brand new, something unheard of. Even now it sprouts and grows and matures. Don't you perceive it? I will make a way in the wilderness and open up flowing streams in the desert."

Isaiah 43:19 TPT

Dear Pinnacle Family,

We are grateful to share that our annual Couples Get-away was a wonderful time of fellowship, encouragement, and renewal. Seventeen couples joined us for this special gathering, and we experienced God's presence in a powerful way. We extend heartfelt thanks to Jesse and Andrea Holt, who traveled from Michigan to bring an uplifting message that blessed every couple in attendance.

Winter Camp is now underway, and the children are enjoying a meaningful and joy-filled experience. It is always a blessing to see young hearts growing in faith and friendship.

We are also excited to share that Summer Camp registrations are filling quickly. The Lord continues to do amazing things, and we are thankful for the prayers and support

When one of the staff/counselors from the previous summer asked Paul if he and three of his friends could stay the night at Paul's two bedroom house, he told him they would be most welcomed any time. T (To protect the identity of the staff contributing to this true story, we will refer to him as "Skip.")

Skip knew of a cave there in the county. If he recalls right, it was about 15 + minutes away. Skip and his three friends went spelunking (cave exploring). They each took an overnight case with them knowing they would need a change of clothes after coming out of the cave. What they had not anticipated was the cave was very wet. The mud and odor from the mud was putrid. When they came out of the cave, they were soaked and cold and way past the time they felt they could be out of the cave and arrive at Paul McFate's house. There was no way the young driver of the car wanted anyone soaked to the skin with smelly clothes in his car. So until they could get to Paul's house and take a shower before putting on their change of clothes, all four teen guys stripped down to their underwear, wrapped towels around them and left for Paul's. The driver, in a hurry to get there, was driving too fast as he flew past a State Patrol car. The chase was on and fearing being arrested and taken in for "Mug Shots", or in this case maybe "Mud Shots" and have their pictures in the paper looking like this they were all praying for deliverance. Regardless, they were most thankful they were able to evade the trooper.

In a day before cell phones, there was no way to call Paul at this late hour letting him know they were taking him up on his "come any time offer" and were on the way to his house. Upon arriving at Paul's house it was near midnight and Paul had gone to bed. They tried to sneak in the house quietly; the back door being unlocked. One of the guys knocked into something that went crashing to the floor. In a flash Paul came down the stairs from his bedroom with a rifle in hand.

The look on his face seeing four guys covered in mud in their underwear and wrapped in towels standing there in his kitchen late at night was one Skip will never forget.

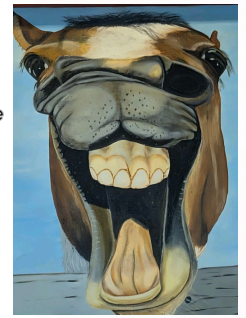

Paul was very gracious, going from very startled to trying to comprehend what he was seeing. Needless to say, it took a few minutes.

After all four took a shower and put on a change of clothes.

Paul McFate, ever the kindhearted man, prepared an "early" breakfast for the guys so they could be on their way home, much to their delight!

Seeing the McFate lodge built in his honor brings to mind what a wonderful man he was that honored the Lord, having been so gracious to a bunch of young boys that, believe it or not, he even invited back again, which is another story for another day!

INVESTING IN BUILDING A BRIGHTER FUTURE

Camp Pinnacle's Janet Truax Camper Scholarship

Research shows that camp experiences often increase a child's confidence, self-esteem, social skills, independence, leadership qualities, adventurousness, and positive connections to nature. Combined with the strong supportive relationships between staff and campers, safety, and opportunities for skill-building and youth involvement, the camp experience offers a learning environment that contributes to the positive development of your child.
